

Delicious California Pears Make Appearance

Peaches and Malaga Grapes Are Also Being Sold in Local Market; Irish Potatoes Decline.

CALIFORNIA pears have made their appearance on the market. The best from the Rio Grande valley have not yet come in season, although mild-fall good preserving pears are on the market. Malaga grapes are also beginning to appear among the new market offerings. Irish potatoes have slightly reduced in price, now being eight cents a bushel, which is a slight advance from the price which they sold in early July this season. Chili and bell peppers are now 25 cents a pound, having been shipped in large quantities during the week. California peas that formerly sold for 75 cents a pound have completely vanished.

Monte Park eggs have taken a jump, having increased 2 cents in value. For the first time in several months a slight rise was created in the fresh market when pork chops went up 15 cents a pound. The quotations this week are:
